Summary

I am aiming to become a software developer, I want to build things that help people. I like making software that makes a difference in peoples lives. My main interests are software development, artificial intelligence creating products and starting my own business. Now I am working on a project called Upward. It is a platform that helps people make choices about their careers. Upward uses artificial intelligence along with reliable data .My goal is to make products that do more than just ell people what to do people. I want to make tools that give people help and get them real results.I like working on all parts of a project from the end to the front end. I like making things that solve problems and help people for a long time.My main areas of focus are:• Building websites that work well• Using Python along with different languages to enhance the efficiency• using Ai tool to my benefit• Making software that people can use anywhere • landing internships and opportunities I am Trying to get better, at what I do. I work on projects to practice my skills and make things that're useful .
